

This NRMA Insurance Home Insurance Premium, Excess and Discounts Guide should be read with and forms part of the NRMA Insurance Home Insurance Product Disclosure Statement and Policy Booklet (PDS) prepared on 10 September 2023.

It applies to all policies issued in South Australia, Western Australia and the Northern Territory with a commencement date on or after 10 September 2023 or with a renewal effective date on or after 22 October 2023.

This guide provides further information about the cost of Your insurance and excesses You may need to pay if You make a claim.

How We work out Your Premium

The pricing of each policy We issue is unique to the individual purchasing the policy and the factors set out in this document at the time the policy is issued. The weight and value of each factor may change over time and as Your personal circumstances change.

Two of the most important factors in determining Your insurance Premium are the likelihood of a claim being made on Your Policy in the future and the anticipated cost of a claim if one were to occur. There are many additional commercial aspects We take into account when determining Your Premium. How important these commercial aspects are and how they work together to affect Your Premium will differ between people. These other commercial aspects that affect the Premium You pay include the costs of operating Our business, intermediated commissions (where applicable), expected profits, market forces and competition, and the operation and funding of any discounts, marketing offers, taxes and charges.

We calculate Your Premium by combining and considering some or all of the following:

- Pricing factors;
- Choice of Excess and Policy options;
- Discounts;
- Minimum and maximum Premium; and
- Government charges.

Your Premium is likely to change each time You renew Your Policy even if Your personal circumstances are the same as before because the Premium is affected by other things including Our updated modelling, market inflation, Your circumstances, wider insurance trends and other commercial considerations. We also consider Your previous Premium and may take steps to limit the change in Your Premium at renewal.

Pricing factors

Our experience shows there are a number of factors that are a good indicator of the possibility of a claim being made and/or the cost of a claim if one were to occur. We call these 'pricing factors'. Some pricing factors are more significant than others, and significance may vary according to Your circumstances. For home buildings and contents insurance policies, pricing factors that may be taken into account in determining Your Premium include a combination of some or all of the following:

- Policy type;
- level of cover;
- optional benefits You have chosen;
- the Sums Insured You have chosen;
- any Excesses or special conditions that apply;
- the materials used to build Your Home and when Your Home was built;
- the address of Your Home;
- the Flood risk and other natural perils risk of Your Home;
- how Your Home is occupied – for example, if You are an owner or renter;
- if there is an alarm installed and the type of alarm;
- Your previous year Premium if Your Policy is a renewal; and
- features including age and claims history of Your Property and/or the insureds.

This is not an exhaustive list of Our pricing factors.

We collect information in relation to these factors from You and other sources and We use Our data, models and experience to assess how important each factor is for Your Policy. At any time We may change the relative importance of any of the pricing factors or how they combine to affect Your Premium, and We may add to or remove pricing factors from the calculation as We require.

Choice of Excess and Policy options

If You have chosen a higher Standard Excess, this may reduce Your Premium. If You have chosen to lower Your Standard Excess, this may increase Your Premium. You should make sure the Standard Excess You choose is appropriate for You, taking into account Your sum insured and the limits of any additional benefits or optional benefits.

Depending on the type of cover You have chosen, You may add optional benefits to Your Policy by paying any additional Premium amount that applies. The optional benefits available under Your Policy are shown in the Product Disclosure Statement and any optional benefits You have chosen will be shown on Your Certificate of Insurance.

Discounts

If Your Policy is issued for insured property or assets located in South Australia (SA), Western Australia (WA) or the Northern Territory (NT):

- You may be eligible for a Multi-Product discount and a Relationship discount. We calculate the discounts that apply to Your Policy, and Your Premium will be adjusted to include any applicable discounts. Please see the 'Multi-Product discount' and 'Relationship discount' section of this guide for further details.
- Policies with insured property and assets located outside SA, WA and NT do not contribute to, and are not eligible for a Multi-Product discount or a Relationship discount.

If more than one discount applies to Your Policy, We will apply each subsequent discount in a predetermined order to the already discounted Premium.

For example, if You are eligible for two 10% discounts, the second discount will apply to the already discounted Premium. This means the discounts are applied one at a time, after each other, in a particular order, as opposed to adding them together and applying them as a 20% discount.

While we offer discounts at renewal, including the Multi-Product and/or Relationship discount, the discounted renewal Premium is not directly comparable to the Premium a new customer might receive. The discounted renewal Premium is comparable to an otherwise identical renewal Policy without the discounts applied.

The amount and type of any available discounts may be changed or withdrawn at Our discretion at renewal. We may change or withdraw those discounts without notice. Any discounts may be subject to rounding.

If You have any questions about the discounts that are available to You, and how we have applied these to Your Policies, please call us on 132 132 to discuss with one of Our consultants.

Multi-Product discount

You may qualify for a Multi-Product discount off Your Premium when You hold three or more eligible products that are current with NRMA Insurance as described below.

Eligible Products	Discount
1-2	0%
3-9	10%
10+	15%

If You insure a new eligible product and qualify for the Multi-Product discount, You will receive the applicable discount on the Premium of the insurance for that new eligible product.

For Your existing eligible products, any change to Your Multi-Product discount generally applies from the next renewal after You qualify (including any existing eligible products You purchase on the same day).

If You become eligible for an updated Multi-Product discount around the time Your existing products are due for renewal, the updated Multi-Product discount may not be applied to those renewing products (the updated discount will be applied on the subsequent renewal).

When we complete the Multi-Product discount calculation, we will use the Policy start date of Your Policy, not the date that You purchase Your Policy to determine which products to include in the calculation. This means that it is important that You purchase Your Policies in the order of the earliest start date to the latest start date so that the Multi-Product discount can be appropriately applied. For example, if You want to purchase three Policies today and Policy 1 will start today, Policy 2 will start 4 days from now and Policy 3 will start 10 days from now, You should purchase Policy 1 first, then Policy 2 and then Policy 3. If You have any questions, please call us on 132 132.

For more information on how the Multi-Product discount will be applied, see the Examples below.

The following table outlines the eligible products that qualify for the Multi-Product discount:

*Any additional benefits or optional benefits do not count as additional/individual products. For example, Portable Valuables Cover offered as part of Home Contents Insurance does not contribute to the Product Count for the Multi-Product discount calculation.

Multi-Product discount examples

Example 1 – Existing Policies and multiple products purchased on the same day

For existing Policies, any change to the Multi-Product discount will be updated from the next renewal date.

For example, if You purchase Car Insurance and this is the only product You have with NRMA Insurance, Your Multi-Product discount will be 0% as You will not qualify for a Multi-Product discount.

If You then purchase Combined Home Buildings and Home Contents Insurance, this will be counted as two products in the Multi-Product discount calculation (in addition to Your Car Insurance).

In this example, Your product count will be three and You will qualify for a 10% Multi-Product discount on the combined Home Buildings and Home Contents Insurance.

The Multi-Product discount calculation will be updated on Your existing Car Insurance when it next renews, at which point it will qualify for the 10% Multi-Product discount (assuming You still have Your Home Buildings and Home Contents Insurance).

This will apply even if You purchase Your Car Insurance and then the combined Home Building and Home Contents Insurance on the same day.

Example 2 – Joint Policy holders

If there is more than one person named as an insured on a Policy, we will use the highest product count of each of the insured people listed on a Policy when completing the Multi-Product discount calculation.

For example, a new Landlords Insurance Policy is being purchased which will have two people listed as being insured. These people have the following other insurances in place.

Insured Person #1:

- Combined Home Building and Home Contents Insurance (2 products)
- Car Insurance (1 product)
- Caravan Insurance (1 product)

Product Count = 4

Insured Person #2:

- Car Insurance (1 product)
- Home Contents Insurance (1 product)

Product Count = 2

The Multi-Product discount calculation for the new Landlord Insurance will be based on the product count of Insured Person #1 (four existing products plus the new Landlords Insurance product (one product)), for a total product count of five because they have the highest product count.

The new Landlords Insurance will attract a Multi-Product discount of 10%.

When Insured Person #1's existing Policies are due for renewal, the Landlord Insurance will be included in the product count for those existing Policies and the applicable Multi-Product discount will be applied. In this example, Insured Person #1's product count will be five, and the Multi-Product discount of 10% will be applied to the renewal Premium of their existing Policies, assuming no other changes are made to the number of products.

When Insured Person #2's existing Policies are due for renewal, the Landlord Insurance will be included in the product count for those existing Policies and the applicable Multi-Product discount will be applied. In this example, Insured Person #2's product count will be 3, and the Multi-Product discount of 10% will be applied to the renewal Premium of their existing Policies, assuming no other changes are made to the number of products.

Example 3 – Adding an additional product to an existing Policy

When adding an additional product to an existing Policy, any change to the Multi-Product discount for other products on the existing Policy will be updated from the next renewal date.

For example, if You have two cars insured on the same Policy and this is the only insurance You have with NRMA Insurance, Your Multi-Product discount will be 0% as You will not qualify for a Multi-Product discount as You only have 2 products insured with NRMA Insurance.

If You then add a third car to Your existing Policy (or purchase another standalone Policy), this will be counted as three products for the Multi-Product discount, and You will qualify for a 10% Multi-Product discount on the newly added car at the time You add it to Your Policy.

The Multi-Product discount calculation will be updated on Your initial two cars when the Policy renews, at which point the 10% Multi-Product discount will be applied to those two cars.

Relationship discount

You may qualify for a Relationship discount off Your Premium for holding an eligible NRMA Insurance Policy for more than 5 consecutive years.

Relationship	Discount
0–4 consecutive years	0%
5–9 consecutive years	5%
10+ consecutive years	10%

If You purchase a new eligible Policy and qualify for the Relationship discount, You will receive the applicable discount on the Premium of the new eligible Policy.

For Your existing eligible Policies, any change to Your Relationship discount generally applies from the next renewal after You qualify.

If You become eligible for an updated Relationship discount around the time Your existing eligible Policies are due for renewal, the updated Relationship discount may not be applied to those renewing Policies (the updated discount will be applied on the subsequent renewal).

The following table outlines the eligible Policies that qualify for the Relationship discount:

NRMA Insurance WA, SA & NT	Included in Relationship Discount Calculation	Relationship Discount Applied to NRMA Insurance Policy
Home Building	Yes	Yes
Home Contents	Yes	Yes
Car	Yes	Yes
Classic	Yes	Yes
Motorcycle	Yes	Yes
Caravan	Yes	Yes
Trailer	Yes	Yes
Boat	Yes	Yes
Motorhome	Yes	Yes
Landlord Building	Yes	Yes
Landlord Contents	Yes	Yes
Compulsory Third Party (CTP)	No	No
Residential Strata	No	No
Travel	No	No
Life Insurance	No	No
Business Insurance	No	No
Income Protection	No	No
Single Item Insurance	No	No

Relationship discount examples

Example 1 – Application on new Policy purchases

You have held an eligible NRMA Insurance Policy for seven consecutive years and purchase a new NRMA Insurance Combined Home Buildings and Home Contents Insurance Policy.

A Relationship discount of 5% will be applied to the Premium of the new NRMA Insurance Combined Home Buildings and Home Contents Insurance Policy.

Example 2 – Joint Policy holders

If there is more than one person named as an insured on a Policy, we will use the highest Relationship discount of each of the insured people listed on a Policy when completing the Relationship discount calculation.

For example, a new Car Insurance Policy is being purchased which will have two people listed as being insured.

Insured Person #1: Has held an eligible insurance Policy with NRMA Insurance for 3 consecutive years.

Insured Person #2: Has held an eligible insurance Policy with NRMA Insurance for 14 consecutive years.

We will apply a Relationship discount to the new Car Insurance Policy of 10%, reflecting the 14 consecutive years that Insured Person #2 has been with NRMA Insurance.

Example 3 – Adding additional insured persons to Your existing Policy

You have held an eligible Home Building and Home Contents Insurance Policy with NRMA Insurance for 3 consecutive years and Your Relationship discount is 0%.

Four months into the period of the insurance for this Policy, You add Insured Person #2 as a named insured on the Policy. Insured Person #2 has held Car Insurance with NRMA Insurance for 14 consecutive years.

The Relationship discount on the Combined Home Building and Home Contents Insurance Policy will remain unchanged until the Policy renews, at which time a Relationship Discount of 10% will be applied to the Policy.

Online discount

If You take out Your Policy online, You may receive a discount on the Premium for Your first Period of Insurance only. If You do not take out Your Policy entirely online, You may pay a higher Premium for Your first Period of Insurance than if You took out Your Policy online.

Campaigns and other discounts

We may also offer discounts as part of a marketing campaign or other arrangement. Separate terms and conditions may apply to such campaigns and other discounts, including that You may not be eligible for those campaigns and other discounts and that some campaigns and other discounts may only be available on new Policy purchases.

Please note that any Policy issued for insured property or assets located in South Australia, Western Australia, or the Northern Territory, will not be an 'eligible Policy' for the purposes of any loyalty discount in other states or territories.

Minimum and maximum Premium

Your Premium, including any discounts You may be eligible for, are subject to minimum and maximum premiums. We consider the minimum and maximum amounts We are prepared to sell the Policy for and may adjust Your Premium to ensure it does not fall outside that range. Any discounts will be applied to Your Policy, only to the extent any minimum premium is not reached. When we determine Your Premium on renewal, we may also limit any increases or decreases in Your Premium by considering factors such as Your previous year's Premium amount. This means that any discount You may be eligible for may be reduced.

Government charges

Premiums for home buildings and contents insurance policies are subject to Commonwealth and state taxes and/or charges which include stamp duty and Goods & Services Tax and may include fire or emergency services levies if applicable. Any government charges forming part of Your Premium will be shown on Your Certificate of Insurance.

Excess

An Excess is Your contribution towards the cost of a claim. Your Certificate of Insurance shows the type of Excess(es) that applies to Your Policy and the amount of the Excess(es). We may apply more than one type of Excess. We will tell You if You need to pay an Excess, or more than one Excess. If We request You pay the Excess, We will tell You who to pay and may require payment as part of the finalisation of Your claim. You cannot pay an additional Premium to remove any Excess from Your Policy.

There are two types of Excess that may apply to Your Policy:

Standard Excess	this applies to most claims under the Policy; and
Imposed Excess	this applies in addition to the Standard Excess if it is shown and as set out on the Certificate of Insurance.

Standard Excess

If You make any type of claim You must pay the Standard Excess that applies. The Standard Excess will be shown on Your Certificate of Insurance.

In some circumstances a Standard Excess does not apply – see the "When an Excess does not apply" section for details.

If You have both 'Building' and 'Contents' insurance under Your Policy, You can choose a different Standard Excess for Your 'Building' and 'Contents' insurance. If You make a claim for loss or damage under:

- 'Building' insurance, You must pay Us the Standard Excess for 'Building' shown on the Certificate of Insurance;
- 'Contents' insurance, You must pay Us the Standard Excess for 'Contents' shown on the Certificate of Insurance; and
- both 'Building' and 'Contents' insurance, You only pay Us one Standard Excess whichever is higher of the Standard Excess for 'Building' or the Standard Excess for 'Contents'.

Imposed Excess

This Excess is paid in addition to any Standard Excess if it is shown and as set out on the Certificate of Insurance. An Imposed Excess may be applied by Us if We assess there is a higher risk. For example, if Your Home will be unoccupied for a long period of time, We may apply an Imposed Excess for any claims made while the Home is unoccupied. We will set out details of any Imposed Excess and the circumstances in which it applies on the Certificate of Insurance.

When an Excess does not apply

You will not be required to pay one or more Excesses in the following circumstances:

- If You make a claim under 'Cover for liability'; or
- If You make a claim for an incident We are satisfied someone else is responsible for and:
  - You can provide the name and address of that person; and
  - the amount of the claim is more than the Standard Excess.

In order for Us to resolve whether You or someone else is responsible for an incident, We may request additional information – for example, witness statements or photographs – and consider any laws, bylaws or rules that apply to the claim circumstances.
